FINAL GAME NOTES: Detroit Country Day ran its national record for consecutive state championships to seven by sharing the 1993 title with Richland-Gull Lake. It was the second time in the streak that the Yellowjackets had been declared a co-champion, the other taking place in 1988 with Muskegon-Western Michigan Christian in Class C-D. Richland-Gull Lake shared its second state championship, the other co-title coming in 1988 with Madison Heights-Bishop Foley. Rob Wisser's penalty kick in the second half tied the game following a hand ball in the goal mouth by a Country Day player which kept a shot from going into the goal.
